Some of the organizations I am aware of that fit into this area are:

- 1) American Marriage Ministries (<https://theamm.org>; they are a 501(c)(3) according to their site)
- 2) The Church of the Latter-Day Dude (<http://dudeism.com/>)
- 3) Church of the Flying Spaghetti Monster (<http://www.venganza.org/>)
- 4) Cannabis Church (<http://thecannabischurch.com/tag/las-vegas/>)
- 5) Universal Life Church Monastery (<http://www.themonastery.org/>)

Can you send me a link to a few of the really fishy ones? Apparently UL doesn't charge, they just sell packages of support materials. So I have no problem with them, per say.

Subject: Minister Officiant Licensing Program

Based on our previous conversation regarding the ability to have a program for licensing Marriage Officiants, I wanted to draft up something as a starting point. I didn't mention any of the clean-up language for husbands and wives (gender based changes), just tried to focus on the program. I think we discussed $100, but I think that's a steep cost especially for someone seeking to perform a single ceremony easy to change if you feel strongly about the higher cost. The only difference would be the $49 charged for a background check for permanents under this new model. We can talk more later, just wanted to have something to start with.

Thanks,
Carl
